If you have questions or would like more information about the Education First Compact and its meetings or wish to serve as fiscal sponsor of a meeting, please email info@philaedfund.org.

OVERVIEW

The Education First Compact is a year-long series of monthly roundtables focusing on important education policy issues in the city. It features presentations by one or more major stakeholders from a respective area of work, and provides a forum to share collective impact efforts. The Education First Compact is the most significant and collaborative forum of its kind addressing education issues in our city.

WHO ATTENDS

More than 900 unique individuals attend annually. These include leaders from every sector who are interested in K-12 education - including those from the School District of Philadelphia, the Mayor's Office of Education, non-profit organizations, education advocates, community members, teachers, researchers, businesses and corporations, funders, universities, and more.

MONTHLY SESSIONS

Each month, PEF curates a session on an education topic of local or regional relevance. Each session by a context-setting presenter - whether a researcher or an education leader - and complemented by a panel of experts who respond by offering varying perspectives. We allow plenty of time for Q&A and networking, in the hopes that attendees will find connections and opportunities to collaborate.

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Education First Compact costs a little more than $31,000 to produce annually – or about $3,000 a session. Related expenses include planning and day-of programming support, as well as refreshments, marketing, session handouts, and room rental charges for sessions estimated to attract 100 or more attendees.

Recognition opportunities:

- Branding on all pre-event communications
- Signage at event
- Recognition from podium
- Opportunity to address audience and introduce speaker(s)
- Access to qualitative and quantitative feedback and measures
